

SCENIC HUDSON

Scenic Hudson’s leadership grant to Walkway Over the Hudson helped transform the Poughkeepsie Railroad Bridge into the world’s longest elevated park. The largest environmental group committed to preserving the Hudson Valley’s irreplaceable natural treasures, Scenic Hudson initially protected Franny Reese State Park – one of 40 parks and preserves it has created or enhanced throughout the region. Today it’s engaged in Saving the Land That Matters Most, a collaborative campaign to protect 65,000 acres of the highest scenic, ecological and agricultural significance.
